

In school. Out of trouble!

Give your kids a socially acceptable excuse to say no to drugs, alcohol & tobacco!

“My parents test me.”

TestMyTeen.com

POLICE, SCHOOLS AND PARENTS UNITE AGAINST SUBSTANCE ABUSE

Unfortunately, “friends” often try to make kids who say “no” to drugs, alcohol and tobacco feel like outcasts. Peer pressure to try drugs, doesn’t end when kids say “no”. In fact, pressure can increase when “friends” try harder to make kids feel like dorks, wimps, or outcasts when they don’t go along with the crowd. It doesn’t have to be that way. Home testing kits have emerged that protect privacy and provide kids with a socially acceptable excuse, “my parents test me.”

For years, police have been the first to know when local kids used drugs while their parents were often the last to know. We found a way to work together and turn that around. We have recently announced a new alliance with TestMyTeen.com, an organization that has donated over $5,000 worth of free home drug test kit vouchers to be shared anonymously with parents who need them. Electronic vouchers require no interaction with police. They protect the anonymity of parents who redeem them online. Ordering is done online and shipping is done using non-descript packaging to protect privacy.

Employers use testing to rid the workplace of substance abuse. Schools, police, community leaders and parents can now work together to ensure safer schools and homes. Kids can use it to prove their trustworthiness to their parents and dissolve unwanted pressure from peers.

Private and confidential vouchers for free test kits (limit 1 per family, only shipping fees apply) are available by visiting any one of the three high schools or middle schools in St. Clair Shores.

Answers to frequently asked questions about home-based substance abuse testing are available at www.TestMyTeen.com.